

AVADH GIRL' DEGREE COLLEGE, LUCKNOW

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

Department of Geography Academic Calendar (Session 2026–27)

July 2026: The academic session commenced with a faculty meeting to finalize the departmental action plan, syllabus distribution, and timetable. Celebration of 11th July as observance of world population day , The Geography Laboratory was arranged, instruments and stock verified, and orientation programmes was organized for newly admitted UG and PG students. Regular classes started and a students mentoring programme was also initiated.

August 2026: The department will celebrate Remote Sensing Day(12 August) . Remedial classes, internship orientation for MA students, practical classes, educational visit to RSAC on 17th August , Lucknow, departmental meetings for academic planning and minor thesis allocation, and career guidance sessions will be organized.

September 2026: Regular teaching will continue as per the academic schedule. Interdisciplinary lectures on Gender Studies, student seminars, mentoring sessions, and periodic academic progress reviews will be conducted to strengthen conceptual understanding and research aptitude, will be celebrated world ozone day(16 sept.)

October 2026: The department will actively participate in IQAC programmes by organizing a distinguished lecture, slogan writing competition, and awareness activities. Internal assessments, viva-voce examinations, remedial classes, doubt-clearing sessions, and student presentations will also be conducted.

November 2026: Mid-term examinations for MA students will be conducted, followed by problem-solving sessions, revision classes, and examination preparation. Students will also receive academic counselling before the commencement of the Lucknow University Odd Semester Examinations.

December 2026: Internship viva-voce examinations for BA and MA students will be completed. Faculty members will perform university examination duties and review students' academic progress for the semester.

January 2027: The Even Semester will commence with a departmental meeting for syllabus distribution and academic planning. Survey practicals for BA students, orientation for the MA dissertation, fieldwork planning, and regular teaching-learning activities will be undertaken along with university examination duties.

February 2027: The department will celebrate World Wetlands Day(2nd Feb) and National Science Day(28 Feb) . A Research Methodology Workshop, RSAC training programme, assignment submissions, invited expert lectures, and GIS/Remote Sensing awareness activities will be organized to enhance students' research skills.

March 2027: World Wildlife Day(3 March)and World Water Day(22 March) will be observed through awareness programmes. Educational field visits, remedial classes, MCQ practice sessions, minor thesis preparation, assignment submission, and targeted course completion will be undertaken. Students will also be encouraged to present seminar papers and project work.

April 2027: Mid-term examinations, internal assessments, viva-voce examinations, Earth Day celebrations (22 April) , practical file evaluation, remedial classes, and uploading of internal assessment marks will be completed. Students will receive guidance for practical and university examinations.

May–June 2027: Lucknow University Even Semester Examinations will be conducted. Faculty members will perform examination-related responsibilities, complete result processing and departmental documentation, review annual departmental achievements, and prepare the academic plan for the next session before the summer vacation and also will be celebrated World Environment Day (5 June) .